Dear Dr. Ozuah,

We write to demand documents related to recent reporting from the New York Times alleging that Montefiore Medical Center is transplanting organs procured from American donors into wealthy foreign recipients who are traveling to the United States for the sole purpose of receiving an organ transplant.¹ The article also states that the American hospitals transplanting organs to international patients have entered into contracts with foreign governments setting the price for organ transplants in the United States and have aggressively advertised these services abroad, while highlighting the short wait times and concierge services that they offer.² The article raises questions related to similar issues that have come to light during the Committee on Ways and Means' ("Committee") investigation of organ procurement organizations, including skipping the organ waiting list by allocating organs out of sequence.³

The Committee has jurisdiction over tax policy under Rule X of the Rules of the U.S. House of Representatives, including entities that are tax-exempt under 26 U.S.C. § 501.⁴ Montefiore Medical Center's current tax exempt status is held under 26 U.S.C. § 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code ("IRC").⁵ To qualify for tax-exempt status under IRC 501(c)(3), "an organization must be organized and operated exclusively for exempt purposes set forth in section 501(c)(3)," and violation of constitutionally valid laws is inconsistent with an exemption under IRC 501(c)(3).⁷ If more than an insubstantial part of an organization's activities is not in furtherance of a tax-exempt purpose outlined in IRC 501(c)(3), the organization is not operated “exclusively” for such exempt purpose.⁸ The Supreme Court has held that “the presence of a single [nonexempt] purpose, if substantial in nature, will destroy the exemption regardless of the number or importance of truly [exempt] purposes.”⁹

For background, the Committee issued a Request for Information (“RFI”) on April 16, 2025, to elicit public information as it relates to tax exempt organ procurement organizations (“OPOs”) and their ability to receive Medicare reimbursement for organ acquisition and transplant costs, the use of OPOs’ resources, and executive compensation.¹⁰ The Committee is seeking to better understand the extent to which OPOs have engaged in Medicare fraud by billing taxpayers for unallowable costs and costs related to concerning patient safety cases, in addition to their agreements and practices with partnering hospitals in their designated service areas. Furthermore, the Committee is independently concerned about tax-exempt hospitals and their decisions regarding the allocation of taxpayer funds.¹¹

Based on information received in response to the RFI, the Committee sent a letter to the New Jersey Organ and Tissue Sharing Network (“NJTO”), Indiana Donor Network, and Lifeshare Network, Inc. on July 23, 2025, requesting documents regarding financial records, flight logs, and Medicare reimbursements.¹² Following more whistleblower reports of Medicare fraud and patient safety concerns, the Committee sent a letter on July 31, 2025, to Life Alliance Organ Recovery Center, the Miami based OPO that the Department of Health & Human Services moved to decertify on September 18, 2025.¹³ On September 3, 2025, the Committee sent a letter to Network for Hope following a damning report from the Health Resources and Services Administration.¹⁴ On November 19, 2025, the Committee sent a follow up letter to NJTO requesting documents and transcribed interviews with more than 30 employees and executives, after nearly a dozen whistleblowers came forward to disclose concerning allegations related to NJTO's operations.¹⁵

The whistleblowers provided the Committee with evidence of fraud, cover-ups, and other practices that may violate applicable law, including an instance where NJTO proceeded with organ recovery from a patient showing signs of life.¹⁶ The information obtained from whistleblowers and through the document production requested by the Committee resulted in a December 2, 2025, congressional hearing at the Committee on Ways and Means on organ procurement organizations where witnesses shared shocking stories of organ donations gone terribly wrong, and testimonies that highlight the need for greater accountability and transparency.¹⁷ Most pertinent to your organization, whistleblowers also disclosed information about OPOs allegedly ignoring the national registry and allocating organs out of sequence which causes harm to organ recipients and the overall national transplant system.¹⁸

According to The New York Times, overseas patients make up 20 percent of lung transplant recipients at Montefiore Medical Center, which has generated tens of millions of dollars for the organization.¹⁹ In this article, Irene Gebrael, who reportedly convinced Montefiore executives to start Montefiore's international department in 2013,²⁰ stated "[y]ou make the hospital gain money, and the patients are happy, the embassies are satisfied."²¹ The article also contained concerning statements from Kyella Fonseca, a former financial coordinator for transplants at Montefiore, who told The New York Times that international patients were given preferential treatment at Montefiore and that her former colleagues at Montefiore would occasionally alter or omit health information in their records to ensure that they receive organs quickly saying "[w]e had patients who we'd been working with, who had been waiting their turn, and then someone from Kuwait would come and jump the line."²²

Montefiore's decision to provide foreign nationals with this critical service—and preferential treatment over American citizens—in return for massive payments far exceeding the market rate is completely inappropriate, given that over 100,000 Americans are currently waiting for an organ transplant and every year 5,600 Americans die on the wait list.²³ As an organization that claims tax-exempt status as a charitable organization under 501(c)(3), you are bound by your

According to The New York Times, overseas patients make up 11 percent of heart and lung transplant recipients at University of Chicago Medical Center.¹⁹ The University of Chicago Medical Center has performed transplants for 61 international patients from 2020 to 2024, which is more than any other center in the United States.²⁰ In this article, University of Chicago Medical Center was listed as one of the only medical centers in the country that has signed deals with Middle Eastern governments, despite federal rules that require hospitals to consider each transplant patient individually and disallows hospitals from striking broader agreements with governments.²¹

Even more troubling, The New York Times reported on a case involving a wealthy Japanese woman who received a heart transplant at the University of Chicago Medical Center just three days after being placed on the waiting list, far faster than most U.S. patients, after the hospital obtained an exception that raised her priority.²² She was a self-pay international patient with personal and religious ties to the transplant surgeon, and shortly after the operation, a charity founded by her husband donated money to a related Chicago non-profit led by the surgeon's wife, coinciding with an unusual spike in that nonprofit's fundraising.²³ The case raised alarms among transplant experts and has drawn scrutiny because it suggests that wealth,
